

SOUTH SUBURBAN ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY
PRESENTS A FREE ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

(Professor of Anthropology, DePaul University)

The Archaeology of Childhood

Top: Indus Valley Civilization Bottom: Rome

Archaeologists began to study children in late 1990s. This provided insights into differences among families, education, apprenticeship, children at work and play, and the commemoration of dead children. Come hear how an appreciation for the lives of those who came before us also the requires us to question assumptions we make about our own lives. -----

Jane Baxter has studied childhood since the 1990s; a second edition of The Archaeology of Childhood has recently been released.
